Once there was an eagle on a leash stuck in concrete. He needed to eat. He wanted to feed on a feast of peas, meat and peaches in cream. When he was asleep he dreamed of the sea.

One evening these three green sheep had seen the eagle. 'That is beastly,' they bleated, 'We will sneak up and free him.'

Soon the sheep were creeping up the street, going as a team to reach the eagle. They each cut at the lead and soon the eagle was freed. He was so pleased he squeaked.
