Once there was a polite knight named Mike, who did not like to fight. He liked to ride with his bride and they liked the night sky. They would hike until sunrise. He and his wife would smile and hide in the pines.

One day he got a fright when his wife took a slide on the ice. He tied her to a kite to dry high in the sky. It was quite a sight. She liked to fly. The light was bright and she could spy mice in the rice. It was a nice night.
