1. Read the text and find the OI and OY words. Highlight the OI and OY spelling patterns in different colours.

Once there was a royal prince called Roy. He was annoyed by a boy called Lloyd. Lloyd had a loud voice and made lots of noise. He was hard to avoid. He was very spoilt.

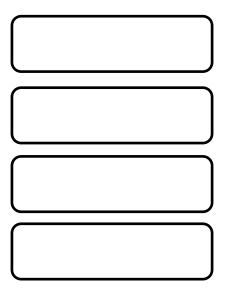

Roy wanted Lloyd destroyed. His choice was to poison Lloyd. He boiled moist oysters with soil and oil. He invited Lloyd to enjoy a meal of oysters. It was just a ploy.

Lloyd took a toy, as a gift, to the meal. It was a tinfoil ball. Roy enjoyed the toy and playing with Lloyd. He decided not to poison Lloyd. He asked Lloyd to join him on a voyage. What was the point of feeling so annoyed? Roy and Lloyd became loyal friends.

2. Write the words into the correct column.

Note: write each word once, and try to write only the base word without prefixes and suffixes.

3. There are some words which break the rules and use an OY spelling in the middle of the word. Can you spot four examples?
